School Physicals

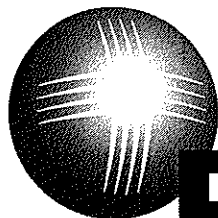

Physical exams are required for participation in sports and other school activities. A RediClinic clinician will review your teen's medical history and perform a physical exam from head-to-toe*.

Acne Consultation

85% of teenagers have acne, and the problem is more than skin deep. Acne can affect your teen's self-esteem and limit his or her social interaction and participation in school activities. At RediClinic, we will evaluate your teen's acne and recommend the appropriate treatment, which may include a prescription or over-the-counter medications.

Immunization Review

Ensuring that your teen is protected from diseases is important, and certain immunizations are required for the 2011-12 school year. A RediClinic clinician will review your teen's immunization history, tell you what vaccines he/she may need for school admission and administer the vaccines if necessary†.

*Each patient will receive a printed assessment from RediClinic. Please be sure to bring any required forms related to camp, school and sports physicals, including the completed health, immunization history and any other required forms. These forms will be stamped by a RediClinic clinician and will refer to the results listed on the RediClinic form. To fill out a post physical form may require a fee.
 Severe acne will be referred to higher level of care.
